Description
I think it would make more sense to have the feature wishlist in Redmine as Feature requests than on the wiki (currently here: http://www.gromacs.org/Developer_Zone/Roadmap/Feature_wishlist). We could add a wishlist priority so that these would be easy to find. I think that Redmine is better suited for managing such a list and assigning people and versions to them, as well as possible discussion of the feature. It also keeps much more easily up-to-date if some of these get implemented. And if those separate wishlist pages would be removed from under the Programming Guide page, it would be much easier to find relevant information from there.
